SEMINAR 2: EVALUATING YOUR EMPLOYMENT FILE

I. Discussion of criteria that well-written employment documents should meet:

CV:

A. Appearance, format and style: one page, consistent font style, type size and spacing, margins (min. 1 inch), information alignment, clarity, visual impact

B. Grammar, spelling, punctuation and vocabulary: error free; appropriate choice of words, knowledge of the industry language.

C. Content, structure and order: appropriate section headings, relevant sections, consistent use of bullet points (no subject personal pronoun I, no paragraphs), relevant info, use of evidence in support of skills/qualifications/experience.

CL:

A. READING the job description: identify the keywords related to the ideal candidate's educational background, hard skills, soft skills, experience, personal qualities needed to do the job.

B. MATCHING one's profile to the ideal candidate's profile identified in the job description: which of the requirements do you satisfy and how can you compensate for what you do not have?

C. WRITING the letter with the goal of convincing the employer that you are a suitable candidate for the position: you meet (most of) the requirements in the job description.
1) Observe the cover letter structure (4 paragraphs) and the letter writing conventions.
2) Be relevant and specific, give examples, offer descriptions which support your statements.
3) Connect your qualifications, skills, experience and personal qualities with the needs of the company.
4) Point out what you bring to the position not what the position offers you.

D. PROOFREADING the cover letter to check content and format, grammar, vocabulary, spelling and punctuation.

II. Teacher's feedback on CV and CL drafts written by students using the criteria previously discussed.
